10 Tips for Encouraging Youth on a Fundraiser
By: Matt Welter
4-H Youth Development Educator

1. Don’t sell for them yourself, have the youth do it.

2. Have them partner up with a youth that might have a little more experience.

3. Make a goal thermometer. Instead of coloring it in, make it out of Legos or refrigerator magnets. Youth like more concrete ways of measuring things.

4. Promise a free reward for sales. If you’re a parent promise them to do something silly for the day – “If you make 10 sales this week, I will wear a purple wig all day.”

5. If you are selling at the office, make sure the youth makes a sales poster or diorama. Even if it is with crayons and says “Plez buy my pizzaz so I can go to camp!” with stick figures, the youth will feel part of it. Also, make sure the youth personally delivers the orders.

6. If selling food, find a way for the youth to try it first and sample it different ways. That way they can say things like, “That’s my favorite!” or “I like mine with Tabasco sauce.”

7. Make sure they know why they are doing this with positive reinforcement of their goal – “That’s $100 more towards your Interstate Trip, only $300 to go. You’ll be eating sopapillas in New Mexico come next summer if you keep up this head of steam.”

8. If a youth makes a goal, have them share it at a club meeting their experience of how they made their goal.

9. Have youth make up their own advertising. It can be business cards or posters to friends and family. An example might be a sticker with a hand drawn star that says, “I bought a pizza from Kelsey today.” When friends and other family see this, they will naturally ask about it.

10. Set a goal of making the day of the event fun and teambuilding. For example, everyone shows up with dressed with mismatched socks or the Club T-shirt. Be sure to take pictures and share with the Winnebago County 4-H Facebook page.
Winnebago County would like to welcome Sarah Thompson as the new 4-H Youth and Science Educator!

Sarah, why don’t you tell us a bit about yourself…

I am not new to the Winnebago County UW-Extension Office, but I am new to this position: 4-H Youth & Science Educator. Several of you may know me from the support staff role I had since the spring of 2011. I was able to meet many of you during that time, whether it was answering questions via telephone or in the office, helping out with enrollments (particularly with the “old system”) or working with you at the Winnebago County Fair or assisting with various other meetings and activities. I am now excited to use my background to work with S.T.E.M. (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) and in other areas of youth development.

Before coming to UW Extension, I spent fifteen years teaching a variety of math, science, English and health courses at a small, private school in the mountains of Kentucky. I learned a lot about the people and life in an area that depends a great deal on the coal industry and is socio-economically quite low in the nation. Although I disliked algebra in high school, it quickly became my favorite class to teach. I learned so much about teaching and learning styles but also about how interests can change, especially when they can make a difference. I am looking forward to using that passion to make a difference in leading educational activities and programs, camp activities, afterschool programs and more here in Winnebago County with all of you.

I would like to get to know you all personally (or better), and I invite you to contact me with your ideas, interests, questions, concerns, and comments.

Dairy Project Meeting
Submitted by Linda Derber

Thank you to all who attended the dairy meeting on Sunday, Oct. 5. We discussed what happened and how everyone felt events went in 2014. We also made plans for the 2015 project year. There were a lot of great ideas brought up at the meeting. There are several committees for everyone to get involved in.

Here are the highlights for 2015:

- There will once again be a mandatory show meeting the night before the dairy show. Everyone is required to attend.
- State Fair committee contact Jen Crowley or Dan Peapenburg for more information
- Dairy quiz bowl or judging team contact Amy Jo Domke

• There will be three educational clinics this year. If you are interested in helping plan and execute these events please contact Linda Derber
• We are looking at changing up the Decorate to Educate structure to allow the public to become more engaged. If you are interested in helping to plan this contact Linda Derber
• There will be a committee to design the Showring this year, if you are interested contact Linda Derber
• If you want to find out more about applying for the James Crowley Award contact Victoria Ewald
• We are also looking at starting a Futurity show for Winnebago county. If you are interested in getting involved with planning please contact the Dairy Committee or Al Silverthorn.

Another important decision we made is to require all dairy project members to attend a minimum of two county or state events during the year before the fair. These events can include participating in dairy quiz bowl or judging teams, attending the clinics that will take place during the spring/summer, exhibit cattle at other shows during the year, etc. We made this decision in order to encourage youth to be more active in the project and practice the skills they learn before participating at the county fair.

If you know anyone in the dairy project that does not receive 4-H generated news please let Linda Derber know, as she is going to be sending out emails to keep everyone in the project updated throughout the year.

Call 920-232-1974 to make your reservations.

National Youth Science Day
Winnebago County joined millions of young people from across the nation in celebrating the seventh annual 4-H National Youth Science Day Saturday, October 11. Fourteen youth became aspiring aerospace engineers for the day and learned how scientists can use their skills to help solve real world challenges.

Our challenge was to create a food transportation device that could deliver a food source to an island (Ceres) that was damaged by a severe storm. The youth worked together to assemble the “soda bottle launcher” and then worked with a partner to design their rockets and test their flight paths. After each test flight, adjustments were made, such as a change in angle of the launch tube, who was stomping on the bottle and rocket design alterations. At the end, some teams were successful (or pretty close) getting food and supplies to the people of Ceres.

Winter Care for your Poultry and Coops
Submitted by: Paula Lehrer buckcreekchick@gmail.com, 920-858-8277 (no voice mail)

To help keep your poultry warm, you do not need to add heat. DON’T use heat lamps. They are a fire hazard and unnecessary. You do need to control humidity. Its humidity in your coop that will cause frostbite, not the cold alone. Also, if you do heat in your coop and there is a power failure, the shock of the sudden cold will severely affect your birds.

Draft is the other hazard of winter, plug as many holes and cracks as you can find, then look for a few more.

If you want eggs all winter long, you will need to add light to your coop for 14-16 hours a day. I personally light from 5:30 am to 7:30 pm using a timer (without changing the timer for the time change). I turn the light off during daylight about 8:30 am to 4:00 pm, but only because I have a southern full size window that receives full sun during the winter. But if you have no window you will need your light on the full day. Allow your birds a dark period so they can fully rest. I wouldn’t like the lights on when I sleep, would you?

Instead of heating your coop use a heated water font or bucket. This will keep your birds continually watered, This will also help with the prevention of frostbite.

Keep your litter deep, don’t clean it unless you have a wet/damp spot and then only clean where it’s wet. By doing this you will start composting which will cause a natural heat in your coop. Instead of weekly/biweekly cleaning, just add a clean layer of shavings. No cleaning will be needed till spring. If you have an odor of Ammonia, your coop is damp/wet and will need to be cleaned.

Another way to keep your birds warm plus helping to keep your coop’s litter from getting a crust, is to throw a few handfuls of whole corn or scratch on the floor an hour or so before lights out. This will give your birds a full crop to help keep them warm. It will also keep your litter fluffed and mixed.
Planning for next year, you need to start looking at breeds: what do you want? Layers? Dual purpose? Eye candy? Standard or Bantams? Popular breeds (Rhode Island Reds, Leghorns Cochins…)? Rare Breeds (Minorca, Modern Games, Buckeye…..)?

Remember your birds for fair need to be 4 months old by July, no Exceptions! The older your birds are, the better they show. Birds hatched before Dec. 31, 2014, are Cock or Hens. Those hatched on Jan. 1, 2015 or later are Cockerel or Pullet.

The first Swap meet for 2015 is at the Fond du Lac County Fairgrounds, on March 14, 2015.
